The Kansas City Museum is located in the palatial home of the late R. A. Long. This magnificent French Renaissance mansion of 72 rooms is situated on three acres above beautiful Cliff Drive overlooking the Missouri River. The collections total over 160,000 items ably illustrating the rich historical background of Kansas City and the Middle West. The collections include many very rare and valuable specimens which cannot be duplicated. This museum of science and history was visited during its first year by 90,000 visitors.
